wetland use and selection by species of waterbirds shorebirds wading birds gulls terns grebes cormorants and pelicans between the rio grande and galveston bay in coastal texas were studied during september and november of 1991 92 and during january and march of 1992 93 based on a stratified by dominant land use random sample of 64 75 ha plots 88 species of waterbirds using wetlands were observed ranks of density and proportion of feeding bird indicated that cormorants and pelicans preferred wetlands with less than 30 vegetation gulls terns and skimmers preferred certain types of estuarine and lacustrine wetlands with less than 30 vegetation especially estuarine subtidal rock bottom rubble types grebes and rails selectively used palustrine aquatic bed rooted vascular and unconsolidated bottom mud wetland types herons egrets and bitterns preferred certain types of lacustrine and estuarine wetlands shorebirds used estuarine intertidal wetlands waterbird management should focus on 26 of the 82 wetland types that we prioritized in the coastal plains of texas management should focus on protecting enhancing or restoring complexes of various wetland types especially estuarine aquatic bed and intertidal unconsolidated substrate types page 1

the book covers the various aspects of the use of pesticides their behavior degradation and impacts in wetland ricefields and presents the results of surveys conducted in the philippines and thailand it includes both bibliographic reviews and selected aspects of the experimental results of a research project on pesticide impacts in wetland ricefields the first phase of the pesticide impact project was developed in the philippines from 1989 to 1991 it was a multidisciplinary collaborative approach involving scientists from irri nri england orstom france uplb philippines who studied the effects of pesticides on the environment and on farmers health and the economical aspects of their use this book presents a number of modeling studies of various water resources systems in the humid tropics and the typical short steep mountain to coast systems in the archipelagic setting of the philippines covering natural and rural systems urban watersheds and built systems such as reservoirs and flood control systems it discusses modeling studies based on pure simulation and combined optimization simulation the book offers insights into real world water resources modeling and as such is a valuable resource for academics and practitioners in the philippines as well as those in other asian regions with similar water resources systems and similar issues problems and concerns user modeling researchers look for ways of enabling interactive software systems to adapt to their users by constructing maintaining and exploiting user models which are representations of properties of individual users user modeling has been found to enhance the effectiveness and or usability of software systems in a wide variety of situations techniques for user modeling have been developed and evaluated by researchers in a number of fields including artificial intelligence education psychology linguistics human computer interaction and information science the biennial series of international conferences on user modeling provides a forum in which academic and industrial researchers from all of these fields can exchange their complementary insights on user modeling issues the published proceedings of these conferences represent a major source of information about developments in this area
