this volume sets out to examine the history of ireland in the years following the dail s ratification of independence from britain in 1922 the different authors in the collection all experts on different aspects of irish history from the first half of the twentieth century focus on a wide range of different themes considerations of the decline of redmondite nationalism the role of unionism in the free state party structures and organisation the development of different forms of identity the nature of economics and the place of the newly independent ireland within the british empire are all included all chapters are either the result of new archival research or else offer a sustained historiographical critique of current thinking

Ireland: The Politics of Independence, 1922-49 2000-06-06

the start of the irish civil war was signalled by the artillery bombardment of the four courts in dublin on 28 june 1922 a week later the four courts was gutted and o connell street a smouldering ruin but the anti treaty ira was driven from the city most accounts of the fighting in dublin end there the civil war in dublin reveals the complete shocking story of ireland s capital during the ten month guerrilla war that followed a ruthless and bitter cycle of execution outrage and revenge the strategy of the anti treaty forces often ignored or dismissed in previous histories is brought to the fore dorney s exacting research provides total insight into how the city of dublin operated under conditions of disorder and bloodshed how civilians and guerrilla fighters controlled the streets the patterns of ira violence and national army counter insurgency alternated and for the first time how the pro treaty murder gang emerged from michael collins ira intelligence department the squad with devastating effect the civil war in dublin brings the chaos of these years to life through meticulous detail revealing unsettling truths about the extreme actions taken by a burgeoning irish free state and its anti treaty opponents

The Civil War in Dublin 2017-06-17 between 1916 and 1923 ireland experienced rebellion and mass mobilization guerrilla and civil war partition and ethnic conflict and the transfer of power from british to irish governments the essays in the ira at war propose a new history of this irish revolution one that encompasses the whole of the island as well as britain all of the violence and its consequences and the entire period from the easter rising to the end of the civil war when did the revolution start and when did it end why was it so violent and why were some areas so much worse than others why did the ira mount a terror campaign in england and scotland but refuse to assassinate british politicians where did it get its guns was it democratic what kind of people became guerrillas what kind of people did they kill were protestants ethnically cleansed from southern ireland did a pogrom take place against belfast catholics these and other questions are addressed using extensive new data on those involved and their actions including the first complete figures for victims of the revolution these events have never been numbered among the world's great revolutions but in fact irish republicans were global pioneers long before mao or tito sinn féin and the irish republican army were the first to use a popular political front to build a parallel underground state coupled with sophisticated guerrilla and international propaganda and fund raising campaigns ireland's is also perhaps the best documented revolution in modern history so that almost any question can be answered from who joined the ira to who ordered the assassination of sir henry wilson the intimacy and precision with which we are able to reconstruct and analyse what happened make this a key site for understanding not just irish but world history

explores irish nationalism in britain from the politics of john redmond to the political violence of michael collins

Conflict, Diaspora, and Empire 2023-06-30 following years of discontent over home rule and the easter rising the deaths of two royal irish constabulary policemen in soloheadbeg at the hands of the ira in 1919 signalled the outbreak of war in ireland the irish war of independence raged until a truce between the british army and the ira in 1921 historical consensus being that the conflict ended in military stalemate in a hard local war william sheeham sets out to prove that no such stalemate existed and that both sides were continually innovative and adaptive using new research and previously unpublished archive material he traces the experience of the british rank and file their opinion of their opponents the special forces created to fight in the irish countryside raf involvement and the evolution of ira reliance on ieds and terrorism

A Hard Local War 2017-12-29
