Research priority assessment for the CIP 2005–2015 strategic plan: Projecting impacts on poverty, employment, health and environment 2013-03-08 the growing perception of the public and politicians that life is extremely risky has led to a dramatic and increasing interest in risk analysis the risks may be very diverse as demonstrated by the range of subjects covered at the annual meetings of the society for risk analysis there is a need to pause and see how well the present approaches are serving the nation the theme setting national priorities which was chosen for the 1987 sra annual meeting reflects the concern that in dealing with individual kinds of risks society may be more concerned with the trees than the forest it is surprising how little attention is being given to the holistic aspects of risk who for instance is responsible for a national strategy to manage the reduction of health or other risks individual agencies have the responsibility for specific patterns of exposure but these are not integrated and balanced to determine how the nation as a whole can obtain the greatest benefit for the very large investment which is made in risk related research and analysis

Risk Assessment in Setting National Priorities 1992-02-01 the problem of deciding which health care technologies to evaluate is urgent with new technologies proliferating alongside steadily increasing health care costs it is critical to discriminate among technologies to direct tests and treatments at those who can benefit the most given the vast number of clinical problems and technologies to be evaluated the many months of work required to study just one problem and the relatively few clinicians with highly developed analytic skills institutions must set priorities for assessment this book sets forth criteria and a method that can be used by public agencies such as the office of health technology assessment in the u s public health service and by any private organization conducting such work to decide which technologies to assess or reassess
