Writing Feature Stories 2004 excerpt from how to write special feature articles a handbook for reporters correspondents and freelance writers who desire to contribute to popular magazines and magazine sections of newspapers to train students to write articles for newspapers and popular magazines may perhaps be regarded by some college instructors in composition as an undertaking scarcely worth their while they would doubtless prefer to encourage their students to write what is commonly called literature the fact remains nevertheless that the average undergraduate cannot write anything that approximates literature whereas experience has shown that many students can write acceptable popular articles moreover since the overwhelming majority of americans read only newspapers and magazines it is by no means an unimportant task for our universities to train writers to supply the steady demand for well written articles the late walter hines page founder of the world s work and former editor of the atlantic monthly presented the whole situation effectively in an article on the writer and the university when he wrote about the publisher forgotten books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books find more at forgottenbooks com this book is a reproduction of an important historical work forgotten books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy in rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition we do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
